

CORONAVIRUS – COMMUNITY SUPPORT UPDATE

Please find below information that CTSi has collaborated on about local organisations in communities and charities that are often providing vital services to vulnerable people.

We are currently helping facilitate and communicate any relevant information and direct people to anchor organisations or volunteers who are keen to help local people.

Community Health Guides:

Provides list of relevant groups for each Clackmannanshire Community

We are currently communicating to find out the capacity and support anchor organisation within communities can offer. The Community Health Guides are in a spreadsheet format with a 'tab' for each community and can be found on our website:

<https://ctsi.org.uk/publications/>

Other help

There are several locally-developed facebook pages sharing help and support in the communities. Please note that we cannot confirm if the information is always correct on these pages. These are:

- Clacks Together Coronavirus
- Coronavirus Clackmannanshire Update
- Clackmannanshire Online

Volunteer Support

CTSi is also helping coordinate community assistance when no other help can be easily identified.

This includes:

Distribution of the Community Assistance Card (attached and available at <https://ctsi.org.uk/publications/>)

Volunteers: CTSi & Volunteering Matters are coordinating an additional volunteer network response if required. Please contact our Volunteering Clackmannanshire facebook page if you wish to provide help and support or just be at the end of phone for someone to chat to.

There are a range of other third sector organisations that may be able to contribute, some are listed below and we are in contact with them all currently to establish their capacity. Please contact us if you need more information on 01259 213840 and admin@ctsi.org.uk.
